INCREASING CHALLENGES, GREATER OPPORTUNITIES

NICOLÁS IBAÑEZ SCOTT
PRESIDENT OF THE FPP BOARD

DEAR FPP BENEFACTORS AND FRIENDS:

On behalf of the Board, I am glad to present the work we have done during 2015. But first I would like to briefly review the context of Chile and the world.

The year 2015 will probably be remembered through history as a year of crucial events for Latin America. First, the change of government in Argentina marked an important and promising milestone. After years of Peronism, a door of political, economic and social opportunities has been opened and the current government of Mauricio Macri should take advantage of it. Meanwhile, in Venezuela, the foundations of the Bolivarian electoral autocracy have been shaken by the opposition's triumph over 21st Century Socialism in the country's National Assembly. There is also evidence suggesting new political map movements, especially in countries like Brazil and in those where the aforementioned events may have some effect. However, the advance of populism and radical ideas taking power, specifically in Spain, are concerning at an Ibero-American level.

Over the past year, the climate in Chile has substantially changed. The uncertainty and its consequences are already evident in the economy and the social environment, all because of the proposed course and the unsteady yet clear government steps taken during the institutional transformation of the country. Advancing reforms regarding educational, labor, tax, and constitutional areas as well as the increasing tension and polarization have further injured the pax chilensis, this virtuous period of good sense, social peace, and progress that ruled since the return of democracy up until about four years ago. In 2011, we saw for the first time in a long while a state of physical and verbal violence we had thought gone long ago.

There are some disturbing symptoms that I have to add that we are all responsible for in one way or another: the weakening of trusts, more insecurity and violence—particularly frailty of the Rule of Law in regions such as La Araucanía, lack of integrity among politicians and businessmen, populist temptations, claims of ideological imposition, neglect of the quality of public policies, and the breakdown of basic agreements typical of a free society, among others. These circumstances are certainly negative, and the challenges are increasing, but, at the same time, they offer an opportunity to rectify and to mature. Additionally, the national current situation gives us the

IN CLOSING, I WOULD LIKE TO

INITIATIVE, TO DEAL MORE AND WORRY LESS, AND TO JOIN US FROM NOW ON IN THIS WAY FOR A MORE RESPECTABLE, PROSPEROUS, PEACEFUL, AND FREER CHILE.

possibility to propose our ideas and opinions in public debate.

We, as FPP, are working in this field by helping to protect and strengthen the cultural and institutional foundations of our society. History shows that you can unexpectedly lose your way, and that it is possible to inflict damage that is difficult to repair. Thus, our work has focused on understanding what is happening and collaborating, from our responsibility as citizens and civil society, with the integrity of our institutions and civic friendship.

We have had very significant milestones, such as visits by prestigious international speakers, national tours to promote two influential books written by our Executive Director and our Senior Fellows—La Tiranía de la Igualdad by Axel Kaiser, and Diálogo de Conversos by Mauricio Rojas and Roberto Ampuero— and the opening of our first regional office in the historic port of Valparaíso. We also launched the Barómetro de la Libertad (Barometer of Liberty) and published numerous essays, opinion pieces and letters. Additionally, our participation in audiovisual media has reached a new record with very good results and our sustained regional presence has exponentially increased by carrying out promotional and educational activities throughout the country. In this second line of work, about 7,000 people were involved in 2015, mostly young people. All this has allowed us to communicate with our audience and hear their experiences, perspectives and concerns.

Regarding organization, the FPP has advanced both quantitatively and qualitatively, particularly in terms of skills and expertise. We have given priority to professionalization as the key for the challenges we face and the objectives we seek to meet.

I would like to emphasize that our work and plans are long-term projections and are part of a joint effort that we have undertaken, along with the help of partner organizations, at various levels and places: universities, research centers, the media, and citizen activism, among others. We are motivated by our ideals: liberal democracy, the Rule of Law, a vigorous market economy, a modern and efficient State focused on serving people, and a powerful civil society.

I wish to thank, in this intellectual and social venture, the support from other research centers, both Chilean and foreign, the goodness of our benefactors, the openness of the media, the work of young volunteers and the passionate dedication of our collaborators as well as our partners and suppliers.

In closing, I would like to invite you to join this exciting initiative, to do more and worry less, and to join us from now on this path towards a more respectable, prosperous, peaceful, and freer Chile. —

PROGRESS FROM ARICA TO PUNTA ARENAS

AXEL KAISER
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

ARMANDO HOLZAPFEL
GERENTE GENERAL

FPP HAD A BREAKTHROUGH YEAR IN 2015. Through its dozens events, hundreds of media appearances, publications and educational activities, the cause that the institution carries out has reached a new level of impact. The ideal of a more respectable, prosperous, peaceful, and freer Chile, based on the principles of classical liberalism, is increasingly known and increasingly alive in the public debate.

Today, the FPP, with 10 speakers, reaches an diverse audience and has a significant level of media exposure. Also, its presence in academic and cultural environments has expanded as never before. An example that clearly illustrates this is that two books written by members of our team, who spread the ideals of freedom, have managed to be among the 10 best selling books in Chile, and for several months. This impact is unprecedented in recent decades among other think tanks, and it was precisely this fact, along with the opening of our regional office, which for the first time took us all over the country.

In the second half of 2015, the FPP covered 13 cities in 9 regions, from Arica in the north to Punta Arenas in the far south. This resulted in regional media appearances, university conferences and meetings with local leaders, young people and businessmen, among other activities.

Through our tour we came into contact with the different realities and perspectives of each place we visited. This allowed us to discuss, debate and, above all, listen, which is something that is very important for our work and will enable us to truly contribute to the country.

FPP has taken on the key challenge of expanding and maintaining its work with regions. It is very important to progress in the decentralization of power and to make more visible the major problems of people who live and work in the different regions of our country.

In short, to FPP, and notwithstanding all that remains to be improved, 2015 has been a year of progress regarding organizational aspects and the realization of our regional vocation, which is indispensable in today's Chile. —

ABOUT US

WE ARE A RESEARCH CENTER WHOSE MISSION IS to promote and protect the culture and ideas that favor a free society as foundations for the prosperity and peace of the country.

According to us, a free society is where the most valuable thing is each individual's freedom and dignity, and where they can be creative and be encouraged to implement their projects based on their talents and their capabilities and, at the same time, to cooperate with others in a respectful, pluralistic and harmonious atmosphere. In a society with liberal institutions, the civil society has an essential role as a contributor of ideas and proposals in public discussions, and by contributing to the quality of debate, policy and dialogue.

Since our early days in 2012, FPP is a non-profit intellectual endeavor of classical liberal inspiration, not dependent upon political or corporate groups. It is funded and operates thanks to the generous contributions, hard work, and support from people who are committed to the ideal of a more respectable, prosperous, peaceful, and freer country.

FPP honors the French economist Jean Gustave Courcelle-Seneuil for contributing in such a valuable way to the dissemination and promotion of economy and classical liberal ideology in Chile. Courcelle-Seneuil was hired by the Chilean government with the mission of establishing and developing the discipline of political economy in the nascent Republic of Chile. He carried out his work between 1855 and 1863, as a professor at the National Institute and at the University of Chile, and as an advisor to the Ministry of Finance. —

What is classical liberalism?

The concept of classical liberalism includes a set of political ideas developed in Europe in the 17th and 18th centuries. This ideology advocates limits on the State's absolute power and its intervention in civil affairs and the eradication of political and social privileges. The purpose is to allow people to fully develop their abilities and projects in a free environment.

I RESEARCH

FPP, CONSISTENT WITH ITS ACADEMIC AND ANALYTICAL VOCATION, IS CONTINUALLY CONDUCTING STUDIES OF GENERAL PUBLIC INTEREST. IN 2015, TWO VERY IMPORTANT WORKS WERE PUBLISHED:

BARÓMETRO DE LA LIBERTAD [BAROMETER OF LIBERTY]

Designed by the prestigious company GfK-Adi-mark, this project seeks to be a contribution to the knowledge of Chilean political culture, especially regarding the understanding on how important freedom is in our lives and the value of the ideas of a free society. This study had 22 press appearances, was on the front page of a nation-wide newspaper, and elicited discussions in audiovisual media.

CONCIENCIA FISCAL [TAX AWARENESS]

Fifty-five percent of Chileans believe that they pay little or no taxes. That is, more than half of the population has no idea of the impact that taxes have on their lives and income. The Tax Awareness project seeks to change this by informing citizens about the taxes they pay and encouraging them to be more demanding with how the government uses these resources.

IMPACT AND PUBLIC DEBATE

IT IS NATURAL FOR A THINK TANK SUCH AS FPP TO BE INVOLVED IN PUBLIC APPEARANCES. IN A FREE SOCIETY, IT IS IMPORTANT THAT PEOPLE AND INDEPENDENT INSTITUTIONS SHARE VISIONS WITH INTELLECTUAL HONESTY AND LISTEN RESPECTFULLY TO THE OPINIONS OF OTHERS. FPP HAS BEEN PRESENT, WITH ITS 10 SPEAKERS, IN ALL AREAS WHERE THE MOST IMPORTANT DEBATES TAKE PLACE, BOTH IN AUDIOVISUAL MEDIA AS WELL AS IN PRINT AND DIGITAL MEDIA. THE ASSESSMENT OF 2015 IS:

FPP, by presenting the Barómetro de la Libertad (Barometer of Liberty) in collaboration with GfK-Adimark, had important media appearances, such as the front page of the national newspaper Las Últimas Noticias and related news articles and columns.

IN SOCIAL MEDIA...

FPP achieved the No. 1 position among liberal think tanks by having the most amount of followers on Facebook in Chile and Latin America. In Chile, it took 2nd place among all national think tanks on this same social network. With more than 7 million visits/interactions in our digital contents, FPP is continuously reaching out to more and more people.

During 2015, 17 essays on topics such as the relationship between poverty and inequality, the problem of corruption and populist demagoguery, and the role of liberal institutions on economic performance were written. Also, in the field of culture, the thought of Oscar Wilde and Clint Eastwood about the defense of individual freedom as the basis of authenticity, creativity and mutual support were analyzed.

CULTURE AND EXHIBITIONS

FPP HAS A SPECIAL COMMITMENT TO CULTURE, MAINLY BECAUSE IT REPRESENTS NATURAL DIMENSIONS AND AREAS WHERE INDIVIDUALS ARE TOTALLY FREE TO CREATE AND EXPRESS THEMSELVES. FOR THIS REASON, PISO 10 AND THE RELOJ TURRI BUILDING ARE AVAILABLE FOR ART EXHIBITIONS.

WIND OF CHANGE: RAÚL'S "NEW" CUBA

This exhibition proposed by Sofía Araos, on May 11th, 2015 at Piso 10, shows photographs of the Cuba after Fidel Castro, the Cuba where the current regime of the island, reminiscent of Giuseppe Tomasi di Lampedusa, has changed some things so that everything stays the same.

ORDEN ESPONTÁNEO
[SPONTANEOUS ORDER]

On October 28th, at the Piso 10, María José Benvenuto and Josefa Cordua, both visual artists, exhibited their paintings under the concept of Spontaneous Order, a fundamental idea in a free society explained decades ago by Friedrich von Hayek. The exhibition was presented by the writer Roberto Ampuero and the renowned artist Gonzalo Cienfuegos.

[PROFESSIONS OF THE PORT OF VALPARAÍSO]

This exhibition, organized by FPP Valparaíso in collaboration with the photographer Pablo Izquierdo, was presented on September 22nd with the purpose of recognizing the value of work as a fundamental part of progress. The work of the renowned American author Deirdre McCloskey served as an inspiration for these photographs. Her book Bourgeois dignity explains the vital importance of the virtues of work: integrity, honesty, reliability, entrepreneurship, sense of humor, respect, modesty, thoughtfulness, responsibility, prudence, and austerity. This exhibition tells, through pictures, of the lives of people of Valparaíso –artists, businessmen, traders, athletes, etc. – whose activities have contributed to the economic development of the historic port.

The exhibition is itinerant since it was presented in the famous Eduardo de la Barra High School and the Adventist School of La Calera, among other educational institutions.

I ORGANIZATION

IN 2015, THE FPP EXPERIENCED A MAJOR ORGANIZATIONAL DEVELOPMENT, IN AREAS SUCH AS PRODUCTION, PRESENCE, TEAM, AND PROCESSES.

TRANSPARENCY

FECU Social 2014 (Spanish for Uniform Coded Statistical Record) is a document that provides a financial report and management accountability. It is a very valuable document for FPP because it represents an important contribution to the management quality and transparency of the organization. FPP participated in a series of workshops organized by the Community of Charitable Organizations to benefit from the law on donations and offer an attractive package to potential donors. Several workshops were held at Piso 10, where about 30 institutions of civil society were involved.

PROFESSIONALIZATION AND CONTINUOUS EDUCATION

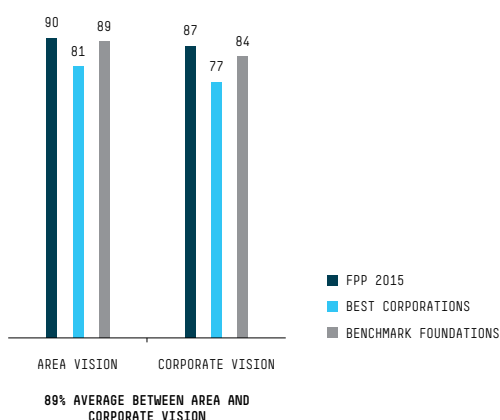

During 2015, FPP made a qualitative leap in the professionalization of the team. This process, in line with the strategic objectives of the organization, has substantially strengthened the skills, abilities and knowledge that converge in the projects.

As part of our constant effort to improve the experience of the participants in our activities, we perform satisfaction surveys, where we measure content, speakers, ambiance, among other criteria. During 2015, all our activities obtained more than 80% of satisfaction.

GREAT PLACE TO WORK

As part of the constant evolution of FPP, the institution has sought to systematically study its own climate and organizational culture. This allowed us to identify strengths and areas for improvement. The evaluation showed favorable results, and an above-average benchmark of foundations.

MEDIA GLOBAL

BRANDKEY AND A QUALITATIVE STUDY OF FPP PRODUCTS

In order to improve our communication with the audience, the prestigious consultancy firm Puerto conducted a study to define the "road map" of the FPP brand at a strategic level.
